Nicole's Story

Even as a small child, I remember feeling a lot of fear. So, it isn't any surprise that as a teenager, I wanted to "get drunk". My parents divorced when I was eleven; I rarely saw my Dad and my Mother wasn't emotionally available. So, it felt like I grew up alone- I have two older brothers, who were also "unavailable". While I don't remember alcohol as a family issue, I wasn't surprised when I found out that my Dad was a closet alcoholic.

I started drinking at parties when I was in my teens. While I hated the taste of alcohol, I loved the feeling, and drank to get drunk. I recall my Mother giving me a valium when I was probably 10, for a dance recital - telling me that I might be "nervous".....then, a few years later, she gave me a diet pill, which I loved! I loved the way I was able to focus and get a lot of "stuff done".

I worked full time and went to college. I didn't drink much during that time because I just didn't have time for it. Once I graduated, it didn't take long for me to start drinking. I eventually started selling pharmaceuticals. The physicians I called on would give me boxes of "water pills", which was basically speed. It was a daily way of life for me - speed during the day and drinking at night. After three years I was promoted to a training manager position in the home office. Yipes - I decided to dump my stash before I moved and never use diet pills again.

Booze flowed at our meetings and it was expected that everyone participate. I never drank before "5" but drank every night.

My career in pharmaceuticals was filled with promotions and, unfortunately, lots of drinking. Booze flowed at our meetings and it was expected that everyone participate. I never drank before "5" but drank every night. I learned to live with a hangover, although I hated it, and continued to vow to do something about it. My company did drug testing. I remember that I would usually have a hangover going in for the drug testing, but not be concerned because I "didn't do drugs"!

In my heart of hearts I knew that I was an alcoholic. I had tried attending a few AA meetings, but they were full of smoke and old men. It meant that if I couldn't control my drinking, I might end up with them, so I'd better do a better job of controlling my drinking!

I had two failed marriages (the second one was to an alcoholic) and felt that my career was where I seemed to succeed in life. It felt true for years, however, the fast track I was on started falling apart due to my drinking, my unresolved childhood issues, and finally, the addition of prescribed "over medication" I was given and took.

Nicole's Story, cont'd.

I was terminated for a reason that was bogus, but the point was, they wanted to clean house, and I was the first to go. I sued and later received a small portion of my lost income. But, that was my first bottom – my whole identity was tied up in my position, now what did I have left? I still didn't even begin to consider that I should stop drinking.

There were more bottoms to follow. I eventually decided that I had a few chances left to change my path in life. And, that if I didn't pick myself up and make that change, I was going to be in a condition worse than I'd ever imagined. I went to an AA meeting, knowing that this was where I belonged. I stayed for three weeks, and then went out again because of certain personalities. I focused on the wrong thing, and this delayed my sobriety. A year later, I returned and have stayed. I knew that I couldn't stop drinking on my own. I knew that AA was the answer along with a belief in my higher power to take away the compulsion to drink.

Today, life is exciting. I'm in the middle of another transition and know that between AA and God, I've got what I need to live life more fully and not be afraid of the unknown.

I didn't think sobriety was so wonderful the first few years. Without alcohol to numb my senses, I had to look at all the destruction I had caused, primarily to myself. I felt so much shame, and it took me a long time to learn to start forgiving myself. I kept going to meetings, working with my sponsor and working the steps. I surrendered to my higher power (which continues to deepen over time), remembering to do the footwork I need in order for God to work in my life. Today, I am beginning to see life in a new light. I can see how life can be lived more fully, if I am solid in my program and my spirituality. I know I'm in a good place when life deals a blow and I don't go into deep depression. I have the tools today. I call my sponsor and other alcoholics, I pray, meditate, and ask God to give me the direction I need to move ahead. Moving "into action" and asking for direction, gives me the hope I need.

Today, life is exciting. I'm in the middle of another transition and know that between AA and God, I've got what I need to live life more fully and not be afraid of the unknown. The promises are coming true for me, but they're happening in God's time and not according to my agenda!

What is Central Oregon Intergroup?

Ever wonder what the "Central Oregon Intergroup" or the "Central Office" is? Read below, you may find the answer to your questions.

What does IGR stand for anyway? And what is the "Central Office"?

The Central Oregon Intergroup maintains a central office which functions as a resource center for the AA groups of Central Oregon. Through the listing in the telephone directory, the central office is often where the alcoholic first calls or shows up for AA help. After-hours calls are forwarded to Hotline volunteers, who can direct callers to meetings or arrange for Twelfth-Step calls.

Our Intergroup office also stocks AA literature and other items (coins, cards, bumper stickers, etc.) for sale to groups and individuals. Quarterly meeting schedules are distributed through Intergroup. The Intergroup office is supported through voluntary contributions from its member groups.

Through its various committees, Intergroup coordinates Hotline calls, updates and prints meeting schedules, publishes a monthly newsletter, sponsors potluck speaker meetings, alcathons, campouts, picnics, maintains a website for AA-related information and events, coordinates with other AA service committees and Alanon.

Involvement with the Central Oregon Intergroup provides several opportunities for service work: volunteers to assist staffing the central office, Hotline volunteers, participation on Intergroup committees, serving as Intergroup Representatives for home groups.

The Intergroup Representatives usually meet the fourth Sunday of every month to coordinate with other group reps and bring from or take back to their groups any issues or information of local concern. They also serve on, provide direction and help set policies for the various Intergroup committees.

STEP ONE

We admitted we were powerless over alcohol - that our lives had become unmanageable

A Personal Journey with Step One

By Kathi C

January - first month of the Gregorian calendar. It was named after Janus, the Roman god of all beginnings.

The 12 Steps of Alcoholics Anonymous begin with Step One. We are not limited in sobriety to look at Step One only in the month of January, although for purposes of putting together an article for the Conscious Contact I will put the two together (January and Step One).

Nineteen years, eleven months ago I could not have admitted that my life had become unmanageable or that I was powerless over alcohol. I could not have put the thoughts of my drinking and my life situations together as being related to one another. I simply did not know I had a mental obsession, an allergy of the body and a CANCER OF THE SOUL.

I drank for over twenty one years. At first the drinking was experimental. I wanted to see what the entire hubbub was about. I was curious as to what my reaction to alcohol would be. The dizziness, a sense of floating, carefree state of mind and an altered state of being were all part of a powerful hook. I liked it and I wanted more. It was an escape from a violent alcoholic home, worry and concern, fear and feelings of insecurity and low self-worth. Over time the challenges of getting loaded, not getting caught and doing things I wanted to do without care of consequences were sought after on an increasing spiral and became an obsession. I was in control – searching out what, when and with who to partner up with were all up to me.

“Drinking had become the reward, the escape, the best friend, the available companion, and the tool to deal with life and all things that didn’t go my way. I had to have alcohol.”

Blackouts, hangovers, throwing up, angry/sad friends and family were things that went along with the experiences. Even as bad as those things got, it was not enough to consider not drinking. Drinking had become the reward, the escape, the best friend, the available companion, and the tool to deal with life and all things that didn’t go my way. I had to have alcohol.

Years later the thoughts began to filter in, “I don’t even like this any more why do I keep doing it”, “maybe I do have a problem – NO I don’t”, “why can’t other people drink like I do or at least keep up with me?”

I lost many things; a marriage, a job, sole custody of my sons, my financial security, my self-worth, my joy and happiness in living. I became a liar, a cheat, and a thief.

There is not one of the 10 Commandments that I have not broken. Suicide became a viable option. I do remember praying, “What’s the use?” I was at the end of the slender rope I held. When I met the woman who was the sponsor who brought me to my first meeting, we immediately began working the Steps of Alcoholics Anonymous beginning with Step One from the Twelve by Twelve.

I saw that I was powerless and that my life had become unmanageable in ALL areas. I began to see the fatal nature of the disease of alcoholism and where it was taking me. I had truly hit bottom and had no place else to go to find the solution I had been seeking except for the rooms of Alcoholics Anonymous. I became willing, as honest as I could be at the time and I knew that I needed to be open minded.

“The Steps – beginning with Step One – have led me to a life I could not have imagined.”

And the journey began. The Steps – beginning with Step One – have led me to a life I could not have imagined. I know that I have a disease. I know that I will always have this disease but that each day I can accept the beautiful GIFT of sobriety and reach out spiritually to continue to grow and maintain the gift. My life has purpose and I have reason to be. Nothing changes if nothing changes and the changes all began with Step One. The Steps of Alcoholics Anonymous have allowed me to change from a liar, a cheat and a thief to a woman of integrity.

Quote of the Month

When, therefore, we AAs look to the future, we must always ask ourselves if the spirit which now binds us together in our common cause will always be stronger than those personal ambitions and desires which tend to drive us apart. . . Though the individual AA is under no human coercion, is at almost perfect personal liberty, we have, nevertheless, achieved a wonderful unity on vital essentials.

For examples, the Twelve Steps of our AA program are not crammed down anybody’s throat. They are not sustained by any human authority. Yet we powerfully unite around them because the truth they contain has saved our lives, has opened the door to a new world.

A DRUNK DECIDES TO GO ICE FISHING, so he gathers his gear and goes walking until he finds a big patch of ice. He heads into the center of the ice and begins to saw a hole. All of a sudden, a loud booming voice comes out of the sky.

"You will find no fish under that ice."

The drunk looks around, but sees no one. He starts sawing again.
Once more, the voice speaks.

"As I said before, there are no fish
under that ice."

The drunk looks high and low, but can't see a single soul. He picks up the saw and tries one more time to saw a hole. Before he can even start cutting, the huge voice interrupts.

"I have told you three times.
There are no fish!"

The drunk is now flustered, and somewhat scared, so he asks the voice, "How do you know there are no fish? Are you God trying to warn me?"

"No," the voice replied. "I am the manager of this hockey rink."
