A Newsletter for COIGAA

July 2022

"The A.A. groups themselves ought to be fully supported by the voluntary contributions of their own members. We think that each group should soon achieve this ideal; that any public solicitation of funds using the name of Alcoholics Anonymous is highly dangerous, whether by groups, clubs, hospitals, or other outside agencies; that acceptance of large gifts from any source, or of contributions carrying any obligation whatever, is unwise. Then, too, we view with much concern those A.A. treasuries which continue, beyond prudent reserves, to accumulate funds for no stated A.A. purpose. Experience has often warned us that nothing can so surely destroy our spiritual heritage as futile disputes over property, money and authority."

Principle of the Month

Humility

Humility is simply having a realistic sense of oneself. A humble person accurately acknowledges both their strengths and limitations.

"Humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings."

"The Seventh Step is where we make the change in our attitude which permits us, with humility as our guide, to move out from ourselves toward others and toward God. The whole emphasis of Step Seven is on humility."

Seventh Step Prayer My Creator, Lam now willing that You should have all of me, good and bad. I pray that You now remove from me every single defect of character which stands in the way of my usefulness to You and my fellows. Grant me strength, as I go out from here; to do Your bidding. Amen

STEP SEVEN AND HUMILITY: THE MISUNDERSTOOD VIRTUE.

"Humility is the solid foundation of all virtues." - Confucius

When it comes to working your seventh step, the quality of humility really breaks down to having a reasonable perspective of yourself. It is quite simply seeing the truth of your life and your place in the world. In AA terms it is the practiced art of being "right-sized." When you humbly ask your Higher Power to remove your shortcomings you are recognizing that you are neither too big nor too small. Gone is your self-entitlement or grandiosity; as is your shame, regrets or unworthiness.

You've actually already taken your very first act toward humility, by admitting your powerlessness and unmanageability.

Typically, when practicing step seven, recovering addicts realize that humility is not a state of being in despair or groveling, but a state of peace, serenity, and acceptance of "life on life's terms."

In The Twelve Steps and Twelve Traditions it is stated, "the attainment of greater humility is the foundation principle of each of AA's twelve steps." The seventh step of AA is an ongoing opportunity for us to embrace the pursuit of humility as a fundamental aspect of staying sober.

https://www.jasonwahler.com/12-steps-of-aa/step-seven-of-aa-alcoholics-anonymous

Step Seven: "Humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings."

When ready, we say something like this: "My Creator, I am now willing that you should have all of me, good and bad. I pray that you now remove from me every single defect of character which stands in the way of my usefulness to you and my fellows. Grant me strength, as I go out from here, to do your bidding. Amen."

We have then completed Step Seven.

A.A. Big Book, p. 76

Step 7 is similar to step 3. It is more specific, however, because now I have completed my personal inventory and so I have a better idea of the roots of my addictive behaviors. I do my best to not play games about these defects of character. In this step I surrender to the "surgery of God" and ask God to remove these defects of character. I do this with a sincere and humble heart, knowing that only in such a way can I find my path to true sanity and peace.

This may also mean action on my part in getting rid of sources that lead me to addictive behaviors. If it is my pride that makes me believe that I can still live with these sources of temptation, then the sources need to go along with my pride. I rid my life of those things, people or situations that are causing me to fall or stumble as far as I can do so in a responsible manner.

12 Steps in Reverse - Road to Relapse

- 12. Having detached ourselves spiritually as a result of ignoring these steps, we let our fellow alcoholics fend for themselves and practiced these principles sporadically.
 - 11. Let our conscious contact with God as we understood him lapse by praying only in emergencies for our will to be carried out.
- 10. Slacked off on personal inventory and when we were wrong, denied or hid it.
 - 9. Reasoned that no one had been hurt by us more than we had been hurt by them and called it even.
 - 8. Made a game of rationalizing the harm we had done others.
 - 7. Sang "I've Gotta Be Me".
 - 6. Decided that our defects of character were too much fun to give up.
 - 5. Denied to ourselves, to God and to everybody else that we had ever done anything harmful.
- 4. Quickly cast a weak flashlight over our moral inventory and decided it was more fun to take yours.
 - 3. Made a decision to keep our will and our lives totally in our own control.
 - 2. Came to believe that since our troubles were of our own making, we would have to solve them without outside help.
 - 1. We decided that we could control alcohol, that our lives were manageable after all.
